Modern trends in the teaching of foreign languages

Zakirova Nargiza Djurayevna

He is the head teacher of German language at UWED Academic Lyceum.

Annotation. This article gives ideas and reflections on the process of teaching foreign languages and the role of modern trends in this process.

Keywords. Foreign language, trends, educational programs, modern technology, teacher, skills.

Today, the skill of foreign languages is one of the integral parts of professional education. The demand for foreign partners is higher as specialists in various industries have a higher standard of cooperation with foreign partners. The ability to use information technology and modern teaching methods will help you quickly understand new materials. By combining different methods, the teacher will be able to solve specific educational programs. In this regard, teachers and students should familiarize themselves with modern methods of teaching foreign languages. The result is the ability to choose the most effective ways to achieve their goals. At the same time, the use of several teaching and learning methods will yield effective results. Teaching is carried out in small stages and is based on the existing knowledge system of the student. In every area of innovation awaits the times.

As we know, the 21st century is recognized as the "Age of Technology". Nevertheless, not all teachers working in the education system use modern information technology in teaching. The reason is that in the course of the lessons, the methodology of modern information technology is not developed in all areas of science. We think that our article is devoted to the methodology of using information technology in the process of teaching foreign languages and will provide practical assistance to teachers working in the education system. The quality of the educational process is evident not only in the introduction of information technology into the educational process, but also in the correct application of modern information technologies by the teacher, the performance of tests in a foreign language, understandable and effective use in class.

Currently, the textbooks and teaching aids introduced in order to introduce the field of education in the country into foreign languages are practical proof of this goal. Consequently, only a student who is interested in his native language and who has thoroughly studied it can learn it with a love for other languages. In terms of attention to language learning in our country, in the next 5-10 years, unprecedented work has been carried out, bringing it to the level of politics, and in turn, a number of resolutions and decrees have been developed on the study of foreign languages, in particular, a videotelevision was held under the chairmanship of President Shavkat Mirziyoyev on improving the system of learning foreign languages from 2021 to foreign language teachers. It was noted that the requirement to have a national and international certificate would be introduced. Now, instead of the regular traditional teaching methods, the organization of lesson processes on the basis of interactive methods using the new ICT has been launched. This, in turn, is one of the modern ways of learning a foreign language in the developing world. One of the most effective ways is to learn and teach any foreign language using modern technologies

In the organization of the training report, great attention should be paid to the development of convenient means of coordinating the student's relationship with the system, including the development of means of visualizing the object and process being studied. Here, under the concept of visualization, it is necessary to visually reflect the teaching tables, that is, it is understood that the problem will be brought closer to life. All of these tools can be summarized by the name of the reader's (user) interface.

Therefore, it is no secret to any of us that the requirement for young people today is knowledge of foreign languages. The study of foreign languages is relevant and important for the further development of the country Uzbekistan in the world community through the study of foreign languages on the basis of modern technologies. In ensuring Uzbekistan further asserts its position among the peoples of the world, the invaluable role of young people and the foreign languages they learn are invaluable. To further strengthen this, the language barrier acts as a bridge. Today's era of globalization requires humanity to keep pace with the times. It is desirable that specialists in various fields should be able to communicate in several foreign languages, as well as be fluent in their native language. In this regard, special attention is paid to the organization of systematic work on promoting the teaching of foreign languages at a new level, as well as the development of the industry, as well as the education of the younger generation in complete education.

Current trends in the teaching of foreign languages include many new methods and approaches. The following trends can be cited:

1. Interactive Learning: Students are encouraged to learn the language through interactive lessons in which students actively participate, such as group work, discussions, and role-playing.
2. Use of technology: Mobile applications, online platforms and multimedia materials (video, audio, animations) are widely used in teaching foreign languages. These resources will help students learn the language more fun and effectively.
3. Communicative approach: In language teaching, a communicative approach is of primary importance and aims to develop students' communication skills in real-life situations.
5. Individualized approach: There is a growing trend to educate each student through an individualized approach to suit his needs and interests.
6. Self-control: It is important to encourage students' independent development in the language by giving them opportunities for self-assessment.

These trends make teaching foreign languages more effective and interesting, and help prepare students in a modern communicative environment.

It was noted that these efforts in the field of education will solve any problems encountered in education and teaching in foreign languages, and contribute to raising the prestige of science, education and development that can contribute to the development of our country at the world level. As the head of state said: "The time has come to establish a new system of teaching foreign languages in our country, which will become a solid foundation for the future. Having set our goal to build a competitive country, then from now on graduates of schools and universities will have to know at least two foreign languages perfectly. This strict requirement should become the main criterion of the activities of the head of every educational institution." At the end of the conference, which was rich in interpersonal question-and-answer and heated discussions, proposals on the development of the industry were presented.
